

January 6, 2021

As we begin a new year, Livingston & Haven remains dedicated to the health and wellbeing of our employees and as such continues to follow the COVID guidance provided by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention as well as the North Carolina Department of Health and Human Services. We're also committed to our customers and have remained open for business throughout the challenges of 2020 and will continue to support them moving forward.

While we've modified our operating environment, with many of our associates working remotely, our level of service to the manufacturing industries we serve hasn't suffered...a fact of which we're very proud. As an authorized distributor of products from a variety of multi-national manufacturers, we continue to pay close attention to our supply chain and will continue to monitor their performance as we also enhance our on-hand inventory in order to ensure our ability to support customer requirements.

Stay safe and let us know if we can help your company be more productive, we're here to help.

Regards,

Jerry Zimmerman
